THE HAGUE, Sept. 5.—In the second note sent September 1 to Venezuela Holland replied to the communication received from Caracas under date of August 25. The text of this correspondence will not be published until the opening of the Netherlands parliament.

NEGOTIATIONS PROLONGED.

Attitude of Germany and Spain Changes Position of France.

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—The delay in the issuance of the joint French and Spanish note to the powers, relative to the situation in Morocco, is due to the amendments made by Spain to the French proposals which prolong the negotiations. Spain, it is learned officially here, thinks it is wiser not to require Mulai Hafid to accept so many conditions as France first suggested.

The position taken by France 10 days ago is believed to have been materially changed, owing to the attitude of Germany and Spain.

READY FOR TRANSMISSION.

Powers Will Await Note Before Taking Action in Moroccan Situation.

PARIS, Sept. 5.—Reports received here from French diplomats abroad are all of similar import; namely, that the powers are content to await the receipt of the Franco-Spanish note covering the Moroccan situation before taking any action on the note forwarded by Germany to the effect that Mulai Hafid should now be recognized as the legitimate sultan of that empire. The conviction is now stronger here that Germany, in view of the manner in which her manoeuvre has been received, will refrain from pressing the issue farther.

Premier Clemenceau has returned to Paris from Marienbad. The note is ready for transmission to the powers and it will be sent out so soon as Spain's approval is received.

TO ACT IN UNISON.

Spain and France Will Work Together in Moroccan Difficulty.

SAN SEBASTIAN, Sept. 5.—Premier Maura, after an interview here today with King Alfonso, announced that Spain would act in unison with France in the Moroccan difficulty.

CAMPAIGN OPENED WITH VENGEANCE.

A Three Day Holiday in Youngstown, Ohio.

Addresses Devoted to Questions of National Campaign.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Sept. 5.—Two formidable political projectiles fired from heavy Republican guns went screaming away in the din of Lincoln, Neb., today and the Republican campaign in Ohio was declared formally under way. Through the smoke could be seen the gunners, Governor Hughes of New York and Senator A. J. Beveridge of Indiana. Another shell, fired by Governor Harris of Ohio disappeared in the direction of Cincinnati, the home of Judge Harmon, Democratic candidate for governor of the state, but a fragment of it seemed bound for the sun parlor at Fairview.

Along the rust-red waters of the Mahoning river, today the great mills of the Carnegie works of the United States Steel Corporation, the Republic Iron and Steel Company and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company were quiet, for a three day holiday had been declared including Sunday and Labor day. Youngstown is a steel town and the brawn and muscle of her chief industry formed the body of the parade which preceded the dispatching of heavy political ordinance. There was an immense crowd at Wick Park when Governor Harris, following an introductory speech by Arthur I. Vorys, began the oratory with an address dealing largely with the liquor question in Ohio which has become an important state issue.

Governor Hughes followed, and the speaking closed with the address of Senator Beveridge, both devoting themselves strictly to questions of the national campaign.

Youngstown was profusely decorated with the national colors, when the boom of a cannon in the public square announced the arrival of the distinguished speakers of the day. The latter in carriages participated in the parade, which brought them to the magnificent grove of oaks called Wick Park. The crowd, mostly in uniforms worn during the parade, packed close around the speakers' stand and was liberal with its applause.

TO CONFER WITH TAFT.

Hitchcock Leaves for Middle Bass Island With Other Republicans.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 5.—Frank H. Hitchcock, chairman of the Republican national committee, arrived here this morning from Indianapolis and left shortly afterward on Colonel F. J. Hecker's yacht Halcyon for Middle Bass Island to confer with Mr. Taft. He was accompanied by a number of Michigan Republicans including supporters of both Governor Warner and Auditor General J. B. Bradley in the primary fight in which Governor Warner, it is now generally conceded, has won. It was expected that Mr. Hitchcock would try to induce the two factions to forget the differences which existed during the primary campaign.

CAMPAIGN ARRANGED.

Hudspeth Announces Action to be Taken on Troup's Death.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Robert S. Hudspeth, chairman of the eastern campaign committee announced at the national headquarters today that action would be taken on the death of Alexander Troup at a meeting of the committee to be held a week from next Tuesday. Mr. Hudspeth said that the Democratic party had suffered a great loss by the unexpected passing away of Mr. Troup who was a member of the eastern committee and had been actively engaged in campaign work for the Democratic party up to the time of his sudden death last night in this city.

Chairman Hudspeth said that an active campaign would be arranged in New Jersey in the interest of Mr. Bryan. He said the prospects in that state were very favorable for Democratic success.

UNVEILED BY MRS. HOWE.

Bronze Tablet in Memory of Rochambeau Dedicated.

Presentation by Professor Henin, Acceptance by Mayor Clarke, Address by Count de Chambrun.

The bronze tablet in memory of General Count de Rochambeau, who commanded the French allies in the war of the Revolution, and made his headquarters while in Newport in 1780-1, at the Vernon house on Clarke and Mary streets, and which had been placed on the house, now owned by Mr. Harwood E. Read, was unveiled and dedicated with appropriate ceremonies this morning, in the presence of a large assemblage. The presentation was made by Professor B. L. Henin of Brown University, in behalf of L'Alliance Francaise, and Mayor Clarke accepted the memorial in behalf of the city. The unveiling was by the venerable Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, and a brief address was made by Count de Chambrun, counsellor of the French embassy and a lineal descendant of Marquis de Lafayette. The occasion was particularly notable because of the presence of Mrs. Howe and her active participation in the ceremonies. In the large party which gathered about the house were representatives of the army and navy, summer and permanent residents and distinguished visitors to the city.

The house was decorated with French and American flags and the tablet was veiled with the tricolors of France. A number of seats for the representatives of the patriotic and other societies participating and for Mrs. Howe were placed on the east sidewalk and a number of chairs were arranged on the west side of the street for guests. The exercises took place at 11 o'clock and considerably before that hour the guests began to arrive, giving the street an animated appearance. The Naval Training Station band, in full dress uniform, was located on Mary street, with a firing squad of the Newport Artillery near by.

Rear Admirals S. B. Luce, French E. Chadwick and J. H. Upshur; Captains S. A. Staunton and W. McCarty Little, Commander Roy C. Smith and W. B. Fletcher of the War College, and Commander F. [illegible], commandant of the Naval Training Station, represented the navy; General William Ennis, General William Quinton, Colonel Joseph H. Willard and Captain Willis C. Metcalf the army; Dean Hurlburt [illegible] Harvard College, in the absence of President Eliot, and Congressman F. H. Gillett of Massachusetts and Rev. Father Brand [illegible] dean of the Dominican [illegible] of Fall River, were also present. Mrs. French E. Chadwick represented L'Alliance Francaise, Mrs. Charles Warren Lippitt the Daughters of the American Revolution, Colonel [illegible] L. F. Robinson the Rhode Island Society of the Cincinnati and ex-Mayor Frederick P. Garrettson the Rhode Island Society of the Sons of the Revolution.

Among others present were ex-Governor Charles Warren Lippitt, ex-Mayors Burton and Boyle, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Berwind, Miss Rosa Grosvenor, Mr. and Mrs. W. Rogers Morgan, Mrs. Charles Acton Ives, John Dalton, Egerton L. Winthrop, Professor E. Jules Meras, Mrs. John Nicholas Brown, F. H. Roesgarten, Dr. W. C. Rives, W. Watts Sherman, Mrs. W. E. Glyn, Mrs. James Griswold Wentz, Mrs. T. A. Lawton, Mrs. Benjamin Thaw, Mrs. T. S. Nowell, Mrs. C. L. F. Robinson, Mrs. Elisha Dyer and Countess von Brockdorff.

There was a flutter of excitement as Mrs. Julia Ward Howe arrived, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Maud Howe Elliott, and took her place beneath the tablet. Mrs. Chadwick and Mrs. Lippitt took seats beside her and Colonel Robinson and ex-Mayor Garrettson were near by. M. Pierre Feitu, the sculptor, stood beneath the tablet, by Mrs. Howe's side.

After Mayor Clarke, Professor Henin and Count de Chambrun had taken their places, Professor Henin made the presentation speech.

Mayor Clarke responded as follows: "Professor Henin: I thank you in behalf of the citizens of Newport for the courtesy extended to them at your hands, and through you I desire to express to those several societies my appreciation for the time, energy and labor which have made possible the erection of this tablet to the memory of the man who brought the cheering news of help, both at hand and on the way, to the struggling and despondent colonists.

"As has been stated today, it has been the custom for centuries to commemorate men of valor by inscriptions

IN AIR ALMOST TWENTY MINUTES.

Wright's Flight Covered Almost Fifteen Miles.

Gust of Wind Again Tears Delicate Framework.

LE MANS, Sept. 5. Wilbur Wright, the aeroplanist of Dayton, Ohio, made a magnificent and highly successful flight here this morning. His machine was in the air 19 minutes, 48 2-5 seconds, thus approaching within a fraction of a minute Henry Farman's record for the longest public official flight. The distance covered by Wright was not accurately measured, but it is estimated at between 11½ and 15 miles.

The feat was accomplished on the field of Auvours and was accompanied by a remarkable series of evolutions demonstrating Mr. Wright's control of the machine. When he alighted easily within 300 feet of his starting apparatus the American aeroplanist was overwhelmed with congratulations. He said he could have remained in the air longer, but descended on account of an abnormal noise made by the motor.

M. Bodlee, who timed the flight, estimated that the average height of the aeroplane was 35 feet and that its speed exceeded 37 miles an hour.

After re-adjusting his motor Mr. Wright prepared for another flight. In the meantime, however, a strong wind had arisen, blowing at times as high as 24 miles an hour. Nevertheless, Wright launched his machine and the aeroplane was slipping along finely, when suddenly a heavy gust of wind threatened to drive him into some trees. To avoid this Mr. Wright turned his machine sharply, but he had lifted the right wing too much and the left wing struck the ground.

This brought about a repetition of the accident of August 13, when the delicate framework was torn from a similar cause. Mr. Wright was not hurt. He calmly stepped out from the machine and examined the broken stays and the damaged wing, after which he announced that he would be able to resume his flights next week.

AEROPLANISTS' FLIGHTS.

French Aviators Make Trips; Two Prove Unsuccessful.

PARIS, Sept. 5.—French aeroplanists were out in force at Issy today to view a number of flights by local aviators. Leon Delgrange circled the field five times, covering a little over seven miles at an average height of 20 feet. M. Ferber, on board his biplane, remained in the air two minutes. M. Malecot, with a mechanician at his side, accomplished two turns of the field at a height of 50 feet, but he had trouble with his motor and had to abandon the effort. M. Bleriot broke both wheels of his machine at the start and did not leave the ground.

It was open to teams of six men each from the army, navy, marine corps, military and naval academies and the national guard. Each man fired 10 shots each at 200, 600 and 1,000 yards.

In addition to the trophy the winning team will receive $50 and medals for the members. The second prize is $25, the third $15 and the fourth $10. The remainder of the program for today consisted of the veteran organization team match, the old guard trophy match and the off hand match.

At the end of the first stage, 200 yards of the inter-state regimental team match, the first marine corps' first team led with 250.

At the conclusion of the second stage, 600 yards the interstate regimental team match, the marine corps' first team, lead with 5.9.

The offhand match, an individual competition, in which there were 47 competitors, was won by Sergeant P. Lund, Marine Corps, with a total of 47 out of a possible 50, first prize being $20. The other three prize winners were: Second $15, Lieutenant Baker, Fourth New Jersey, 45, third, Sergeant Dr. Leach, Marine corps, 45; fourth, Private Minervini, Fourth New Jersey, 45.

This Morning's News.

ALEXANDER TROUP DEAD.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4—Alexander Troup, who from 1885 to 1889 was collector of internal revenue for Rhode Island and Connecticut, and who in the present Presidential campaign was regarded as one of New England's foremost Bryan advocates, dropped death stricken in the Grand Central Station tonight. He fell senseless in the presence of a crowd and expired without regaining consciousness.

According to Harry Walker, an earnest supporter of the Bryan cause in the East, Mr. Troup was a martyr to his devotion to the Democratic party and had over-exerted himself at this afternoon's meeting of the party's leaders at the national headquarters in the Hoffman House, where he made an argument lasting an hour and a half on the appointment of former Senator Smith of New Jersey to membership on the committee.

This was later forcibly denied at the national Democratic headquarters, where it was said that at no time during the conference had Mr. Troup engaged in an argument that might have caused him physical depression. The candidacy of Senator Smith had not even been brought up. It was officially stated, and the entire conference had been amicable and without a clash of any sort.

However this may have been, Mr. Troup had just returned from Vermont, where he made an active campaign in behalf of the nominee for governor. Before going to the Green Mountain State he had given much thought and time to arrangements for an aggressive campaign in Rhode Island, Massachusetts and Connecticut.

It had been known for some time that the politician was suffering from a weak heart. About a year and a half ago he was stricken while returning from a banquet in Brooklyn, and it was more than an hour before he could be brought back to consciousness. Before that, while on a speaking tour in Vermont four years ago, in company with William J. Bryan, whose close friend he was, Mr. Troup had suffered a stroke which caused his friends much apprehension.

Mr. Troup was one of the most prominent figures in the newspaper and political life of Connecticut, and since the first time Mr. Bryan ran for the Presidency the veteran New Haven editor had played a part in national politics as one of the most stalwart supporters of the Democratic leader. For a quarter of a century he had written editorials for his paper, the New Haven Union, and they were editorials of plain, strong English. His writings when turned to political comment received wide recognition, and unalterably he advocated the cause of the Democracy as represented by Mr. Bryan for the past 12 years.

Recently Mr. Troup relinquished the more active side of publishing the Union, continuing to have general oversight of it and leaving the management to his sons, Alexander, Jr., and Philip.

In party politics in Connecticut he had been the centre of many strong situations, none of which, probably, was more dramatic than at the Democratic state convention two years ago last spring, when he had a vigorous debate on the floor with former Governor Waller of New London, which ended in a hearty handshake and a political reconciliation of their differences, dating from the 1896 campaign. Of large and sturdy frame and usually wearing a slouch hat, Mr. Troup was a conspicuous figure in political gatherings wherever he went.

STOPPED BY DYNAMITE.

Three Thousand Persons Made Homeless by Fire at Rawhide, Nev.

RAWHIDE, Nev., Sept. 4.—Three thousand persons homeless, a score or more injured and a property loss of over $750,000 are the result of a disastrous fire which started here this morning. Fanned by a gale, the fire swept rapidly. Over a ton and a half of dynamite was used in the demolition of buildings, which, in a measure, stayed the flames' progress.

The volunteer fire department and 500 miners worked heroically, but on account of the inflammable construction of the buildings they were swept away like tinder. At 11 a. m. the business portion of Rawhide was a smouldering ruin, the flames being finally checked south of Balloon avenue.

Among the first buildings to go was Collins's hardware store, which contained two tons of dynamite that exploded with a terrific report, hurling burning planks and boards a great distance and setting fire to numerous buildings simultaneously. The scenes were similar to those at the fire at Goldfield in July, 1906, and at Cripple Creek in April, 1896. Many people were injured by flying debris, but none is reported seriously hurt.

A famine was feared, as all the supply houses and grocery stores were wiped out. A subscription list was started and in a few minutes over $5,000 was raised and a relief train started from Reno carrying food and bedding.

All the mining towns of the state came quickly to the assistance of the Rawhide sufferers with cash contributions and the San Francisco Mining Exchange sent a contribution of $700.

Before the ashes were cool plans were under way for a reconstruction of the town.

The town has been placed under martial law.

CALLS A HALT ON CLAIMS.

Grand Army Not to Press Relief Measures for Three Years

TOLEDO, Ohio, Sept. 4.—Not for three years will the Grand Army of the Republic ask Congress for further relief measures. Resolutions looking to an amendment to the service pension bill reducing to 65 years the age at which a veteran can receive $20 a month and another amending the pending widows' pension bill to make eligible all soldiers' widows who were married prior to the date of passage of the bill, were laid over in favor of a resolution granting Congress three years respite from old soldier legislation.

It appeared to be the consensus of opinion of the leaders that too much hammering for pension and other relief measures might [illegible] the [illegible] impression [illegible] of congressmen and [illegible] the Civil War veterans at the time in his life when he would [illegible] assistance at the hands of [illegible] he helped to save.

Vice Commander-in-Chief [illegible] notified the encampment that Atlanta would be in the field for 1909. His only fear was that Atlanta could not care for all the Johnnies who would come from Southern states to greet them. This statement was greeted with great applause.

MORE ACTIVITY AT JOBBING.

Boston Reports Slow Progress in Trade and Industry.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4—Despatches to R. G. Dun & Company indicate a better volume of retail trade and preparation for fall and winter provides more activity at jobbing and wholesale houses. There is a decided gain in the active machinery at leading manufacturing industries, but mercantile payments are still irregular. Boston reports slow progress in trade and industry, some plants increasing in output while cotton mills curtail heavily.

Bank exchanges this week at all leading cities in the United States are $2,312,862,725. In the corresponding week last year, there were only five business days.

PORTSMOUTH.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

"Tiny," the dog which belonged to Rev. Allen Jacobs while rector of St. Mary's, who gave him the name in a facetious moment, is a massive St. Bernard, full-blooded, finely marked and weighing about 125 pounds. Since Mr. Jacobs went to Cambridge to live, "Tiny" has joined the Cambridge police force and no policeman in the city is more faithful to the 2 o'clock roll-call. When the order is given to "Fall in" he trots up and down the line as though inspecting the relief, and then goes out with the men and travels with one of them till his work is done. A fine picture of him is given in the Boston Globe.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Chace have returned from a fortnight's visit to their son Edward and family in Portland, Maine. During their absence they visited Old Orchard Beach, Riverton Park, Falmouth, Yarmouth, Freeport and Casco Castle, whose 800 steps they climbed; then to Gorham, N. H., coming home by way of Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Hedley of Woonsocket have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Gardner of Taunton will remain with Mr. and Mrs. Wood until the season closes.

The travel over the Stone Bridge for the month of August is reported to be as follows: Electric cars, 2,869; automobile, 4,571; one-horse carriages, 2,877; carriages of two or more horses, 165; one-horse wagons 2,479; teams of two or more horses, 567; loads of four tons or more, 7; miscellaneous, 508. Of these 7,021 passed east and 7,022 passed west. The passage through the bridge includes 251 steamers, 4 towboats, 4 sailing vessels, 248 sailboats, 3 barges and one miscellaneous.

Mr. Howard Cole of Lynn, who has been guest of Dr. Minot A. Steele for a week, has returned home.

The new schoolhouse which is being built in what formerly was called the Newtown district is shaped somewhat like the letter T. There are to be three rooms, primary, intermediate and grammar, each 29 feet square. The frontage is to be 30 feet, the wings projecting from the sides of the rear about 18 feet. Mr. John R. Coggeshall is supervising the building and will hurry it to completion as soon as possible. It has a concrete foundation, which is finished, and the frame of the building raised.

Mrs. Maude Coggeshall and Miss Alice King of Fall River have been guests of Miss Beulah Barker.

Miss Annie Glecker of Fall River and her brother, Mr. George Glecker of Boston, have been guests of Mr. John and Mr. Albert Ashworth.

Mr. John Marks is having a large hennery built, where he expects to raise poultry for early market.

Mr. W. F. Andrews of the Lane Construction Company, who has been in this and the adjoining town of Tiverton since last spring, has made his final departure, taking with him the steam roller and going to Williamstown, Mass. Mrs. Andrews and her children have gone to their home in North Brookfield, Mass.

A BIRTHDAY DANCE

A party was given last evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Hass, on Almy court, in honor of the sixteenth birthday of their daughter, Henrietta. There were assembled about 30 people, among them some of the officers from German cruiser Freya. Vocal and instrumental selections were rendered by John Hass, Carl Anthony, Raymond Chase, Hugo Anthony, Miss Edith Arnold, Miss Etta Hass, and a buck and wing dance by Mr. Francis Harrington. The German officers sang a few selections in their native tongue which were much appreciated. At midnight a collation was served, after which dancing was had until an early hour this morning. Mr. and Mrs. Hass assisted their daughter in entertaining the company.

THE ROLLER SKATE MENACE.

Now is the Time, When the Craze is Reviving, for the Authorities to Regulate It.

[illegible] Editor of the Daily News:

[illegible] one of the survivors of the [illegible] outburst of the roller skate [illegible] the public streets which oc[illegible] last autumn and winter in [illegible] I crave the shelter of your [illegible] way to the public, where [illegible] neither jostled or knocked [illegible] or permanently injured for life. Boys and [illegible] some of mature years, [illegible] and athletic spinsters, [illegible] a contrary opinion. The [illegible] reads thus: "No person shall [illegible] or propel any bicycle, tricycle, [illegible] other vehicle propelled [illegible] manner on the sidewalks [illegible] street, avenue, road, square, [illegible] highway of the city or upon [illegible] foot-path."

A [illegible] of roller skates is nothing [illegible] octocycle, there being four [illegible] wheels on each foot, and [illegible] propelling power being supplied [illegible] muscular system of the human [illegible] It therefore, comes plainly un[illegible] description covered by the [illegible] other vehicle propelled in [illegible] manner." The term vehicle, [illegible] from the Latin verb "vehere," [illegible] is thus defined in Webster's [illegible] Dictionary: "That in or [illegible] any person or thing is or [illegible] carried, as a coach, carriage, [illegible] cart, sleigh, bicycle, etc.; a [illegible] of conveyance; specifically, a [illegible] conveyance upon land."

[illegible] limits of the compact part of [illegible] within which limits the sal[illegible] obtains that excludes our [illegible] and the octocycle from our [illegible] are defined at page 182 of [illegible] ordinances. [illegible] the municipal authorities [illegible] make themselves popular [illegible] the young people, and probably [illegible] with some of their parents, by [illegible] their duty and issuing preven[illegible] orders, which should emanate [illegible] the mayor to the chief of police. The amusement in itself is healthy [illegible] racing, but there are admirable [illegible] rinks in the city, where the [illegible] can be followed. Let more [illegible] rinks be constructed, if there is [illegible] for them. The erection of [illegible] skating rinks may, in the [illegible] of evolution, come within the [illegible] of the Representative Coun[illegible] just at present our city funds [illegible] either for mental or physical [illegible] do not seem to be over[illegible] However, we shall probably [illegible] somehow.

FLEET LEAVES MELBOURNE.

Given Farewell Never Equalled In That Part of the World.

American Sailors Borne on the Shoulders of the Enthusiastic Crowds.

The American battleship fleet steamed out of Melbourne harbor at 8 o'clock this morning, after a leave-taking such as was never before known in this part of the world, hundreds and hundreds of the sailors having been borne on the shoulders of enthusiastic crowds.

All the tars were ordered on board the ships last night. Before leaving, without prearrangement but naturally and by common consent, they gravitated to the central tramway station. Vast throngs of Australians, anticipating this ending, gathered there for an enthusiastic leave-taking. A scene of the wildest good-fellowship followed.

As each American sailor arrived at the station the crowd swooped down upon him and lifting him high on their shoulders carried him into the building and deposited him in his seat to a constant accompaniment of hurrahs, calls of "Good-by, old man," and the final singing of the chorus, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

No sooner had one man been started on his way than the unlifting Australians sought out another, and even when the Americans arrived by the dozen and by the score, there was no lack of willing hands and arms to give each sailor or marine a similar send-off.

There were many equally fervent but less demonstrative farewells on the station platform when the officers bade good-by to their newly made friends in this city.

The Connecticut, Rear Admiral Sperry's flagship, weighed anchor promptly at 8 o'clock this morning, the appointed time, and started down the bay. With clock-like precision 14 others of the white-hulled craft followed in her wake and began the cruise to Albany, West Australia. The New Jersey remained in the harbor to convey to the fleet the American mail which is expected shortly.

As the vessels passed down the bay in single file the hills and the town of Melbourne resounded again with the booming of salutes from the fleet and the batteries ashore. Scores of steamers, yachts and launches laden with cheering crowds escorted the ships down the bay to the headlands, where they remained until the American vessels were lost in the fog.

The headland shores were crowded with spectators, to witness the ending of the history-making visit, the full significance and potentialities of which, it is believed, have not yet been realized.

On every hand there were expressions of sincere regret at the departure of the fleet. The one feature of the stay of the vessels in this port which has attracted more attention than any other has been the personal friendships established between the officers of the fleet and the people of Melbourne. Official functions there were almost without number, but in addition there have been many private luncheons and dinners and calls quite informal in character, which gave a better opportunity for the forming of acquaintances and friendships which will endure for many years to come.

The visit to Melbourne had its sad accompaniment in the death by accident of two of the men from the fleet. They were Arthur Decker, a sailor from the New Jersey, and a bandsman from the Vermont, named Michaelson. Both men were killed by moving railroad trains while on excursions to the suburbs. They were buried yesterday with full military honors, the mourners including representatives of the local naval and military forces.

The state government yesterday afternoon entertained Admiral Sperry and the senior officers of the fleet at an elaborate luncheon at Parliament House. Sir Thomas Gibson-Carmichael, governor of Victoria, and many of the state ministers were present. The Victorian premier, Thomas Bent, delivered an address of welcome, in which he said that Alfred Deakin, the prime minister of the Commonwealth, had good reason to be proud of the fact that he was the man who invited the American fleet to Australian waters.

Yesterday afternoon there were base ball and lacrosse matches at the cricket grounds and a regatta on Hobson's bay. A nine from the fleet defeated a Victoria team, 15 to 1.

Last evening the warrant, petty and non-commissioned officers of the fleet were entertained on shore by the officers of equal rank of the commonwealth naval and military forces of Victoria, and the state government provided a wonderful display of fireworks at Albert Park, which was witnessed by enormous crowds. The Hawthorne Lacrosse Club also gave a ball last night in honor of the American officers.

AN AUTUMN SONG.

[Robert Loveman, in Uncle Remus's—The Home Magazine.]

There's a calm and tender feeling, as as of autumn in the air.
  Ev'rywhere, ev'rywhere;
The shallop leaves sail down, crimson'd-green and golden'd-brown,
  Here and there, here and there;
Old Rocky Face is sad, haughty, handsome, stern and bad,
  But the young wee hills smile,
  Dreaming softly all the while,
With the calm and tender feeling, as of autumn in the air.

There's a tender, holy feeling, as of autumn in the air.
  'Tis a prayer, 'tis a prayer;
Sweet benedictions and all blessings
  beam upon us,
  Ev'rywhere, ev'rywhere;
While memories of summer now faintly fade away,
  Hill and valley ring in glee,
  "O, let love the harvest be,"
With the tender, holy feeling, as of autumn in the air.

FANCIES.

Candidate, he come along,
  Talkin' right an' loud;
Glee club sing a potty song;
  We jines in de crowd.
Hab a mos' convincin' way;
  Speeches very mos' great, true.
"Mistah candidate," I say,
  "I gwine to vote for you!"

'Nother candidate draws nigh;
  Has a band dat's great.
Say dat opposition try
  To swamp de ship o' state.
An' now de question dat I note
  A risin' o'er de land,
Is dis: "Which wins de people's vote;
  De glee club or de band?"

THE NAVAL HOSPITAL OPPORTUNITY.

It is very seldom that Newport has an opportunity to secure an institution which will be of such great and lasting benefit as that which is now offered by the government, in the establishment of a naval hospital of the largest kind, fully equipped to provide for a long stretch of the New England coast. Slight action now by the Board of Aldermen will secure this. Newport is destined to become, more than ever before, perhaps, the most important naval centre of the whole Atlantic coast. The city is not asked directly to help in the work. The least she can do is to try not to block it.

HUGHES AND HORSE RACES.

It was the observation of a philosopher, apropos of a certain very "horsey" individual, that the horse was a noble animal, but he did not impart his nobility to the men who associated with him. The news from the New York county fairs indicates that the horse imparts asinine qualities to his human associates.

Several days ago the governor was at a county fair and the horse men would not "pull off" their races until he had left. Not much attention was paid to this piece of impudence, but it has been repeated at other fairs. The horse men won't race until the governor leaves. In one instance at least the managers of the fair hammered a little sense into the heads of the horse owners, by notifying them that if they did not start when it was time for them to start they would have no opportunity to race during the fair.

If the men are going to run or trot their horses it of course matters nothing whether the governor is present or not. The refusal to race while the governor was on the premises was simply a petty insult. It was of not the least use to the sporting men, and it didn't hurt the governor; it was nothing but a piece of contemptible spite. It couldn't help the racing men to beat the governor for another nomination, and on the other hand it ought to provoke a feeling of resentment which would make the governor's renomination more certain.

Horse racing for purses is not under the ban. Gambling on the races is, and the governor has simply enforced the law and procured some additional law to effect the purposes of what has been the law for years. But what the sporting men have found it easy to evade or circumvent he has simply made effective what has long been the purpose of the law. Racing is not interfered with; it is going on at the present series of county fairs, which proves, so far as it goes, that gambling is not essential to the continuance of racing. At any rate, the horse owners have invited public contempt by their needlessly offensive attitude toward the governor.

THE MOROCCAN AFFAIR.

It is only recently that Germany has pretended to have any interests in Morocco, and already she is taking the lead in dictating the terms of settlement between Europe and the usurping sultan. The Kaiser has for many years backed the sultan on the Bosphorus against the political opinion of Europe and the moral sentiments of Christendom, and has thereby done a good deal to extend German trade in Turkey. The business of owning a sultan has paid so well at one end of the Mediterranean that the Kaiser has apparently decided to own one at the other end.

Moroccan affairs used to be exclusively of Spanish interest, because Spain was just across the Straits of Gibraltar from Morocco. After a while France appeared as a Moroccan power, because she possessed Algeria, which adjoins Morocco. As the tribesmen can ride back and forth over the boundary easily enough, disorder in Morocco affected Algeria, and so France asserted interests which Spain had to recognize. Then England came into the affair to an undefined extent, because she has Gibraltar and is a Mediterranean power by virtue of that post and of Malta, Cyprus and Egypt, and finally because pretty nearly everything anywhere affects England in one way or another.

A year or two ago Germany asserted that she had rights in Morocco. This angered France, but it doesn't pay to be rude to Germany; so France controlled herself as well as she could and Germany participated in the Algeciras conference. Now Mulai Hafid has beaten his brother Abdul Aziz, the rightful sultan. France proposed to have the signatories to the Algeciras agreement recognize the usurper upon conditions to which he was to assent. Germany proposes to recognize him out of hand. Mulai Hafid knows now who his friend in Europe is, and the chance of securing terms from him is impaired. France, the possessor of Algiers, is bitterly offended to have this upstart of a factor in African affairs, who only got into the game a year or two ago, take the lead in determining the policy of Europe toward the de facto sultan of Morocco. But we shall see an increase of German trade with the Moors.

INDIVIDUAL FORESTATION.

Massachusetts is giving a good object lesson of the possibility of forestry work on the part of states. There has been a sort of belief that such work can be done only by the national government, but the state forester of Massachusetts conceived the idea that it was not necessary to await action by the federal government, but that much could be done by the states themselves. So he has set about the work, and his operations promise to be of great service in blazing the way in other states. There certainly is no good reason why all efforts at forestation should be made by the national government. The states, and even the towns, are as much interested as the general government; indeed, more so, because they are more directly affected by the damage done by the devastation of the forests and the wholesale destruction of the stretches of woodland which add to the beauty of the landscape and to the healthfulness and general welfare of the people.

There would be poetic justice in the undertaking by individuals and corporations of the work of repairing the damage which has been done to the forests of the country, inasmuch as most of this damage has been done by companies and individuals. The idea is not unreasonable. Of course not much could be done in this way if the individuals and the corporations worked singly and separately, but if they were banded together in some general movement and were all interested to accomplish something to undo the injury they have wrought the result would be effective and considerable. It seldom happens, however, that those who are so bent on money making as to cut down the forests ruthlessly become enough interested in the results of their destructive work and the injurious effect it must have upon the community to do anything to repair the damage they have done, so that it is probably hopeless to look for any help from that source.

The assistance of individuals and corporations other than those which are engaged in the business of despoiling the forests can be looked for, and this work which has been undertaken in Massachusetts provides a good avenue for such aid. Its object is to interest the citizens in re-forestation, to make them understand and appreciate the need of work along this line and eager to engage in it. Such a plan possesses many elements of hopefulness. So long as the federal government alone is depended upon for the salvation and reconstruction of the forests there is little reason why the people as individuals should take particular interest in the work, except in a general way. Under the plan which has been started in Massachusetts the work assumes a more personal character and it is possible for citizens to become quite enthusiastic over efforts to preserve and restore the forests, just as they do in many places over town or village improvement.

It is the co-operation of the many which counts in any popular enterprise, and that is what is needed in this movement for the preservation of the forests, and why this special movement in Massachusetts is holding the interest of many who are concerned for its success. It is not unlikely, too, that this state forester has struck the key-note of success in this direction by his scheme, for it promises at least to do more than any other yet devised has done to create popular interest in re-forestation. The work of the national government is important and will doubtless continue to be needed, for it can be done on a larger scale than by any other method. But that is not a popular work in the sense of enlisting the people to aid in it, while this plan of the Massachusetts forester possesses the popular feature of interesting many, and so securing the co-operation of a large number of individuals, which gives it its special element of hopefulness.

A freight car shortage is predicted when business fully revives. Interstate Commerce Commissioner Prouty thinks it will not come this fall, but [illegible] Manager Pawlett of the Fort Worth, Texas, freight bureau says it will come by October and will equal the distress of two years ago, when business was nearly crippled by a scarcity of cars in which to move freight. Mr Pawlett says the shortage is already beginning to show itself in the handling of grain. Even though the grain movement is retarded on account of adverse market conditions. If the market changes round," he added, "to permit a normal movement of grain, look for a real crisis in October."

It pleases the Democratic managers to think, or at least to say they think, that Rhode Island is a doubtful state, the national committee classing it with Connecticut, New York and Delaware in the list of doubtful. It will do no harm to think that way for political purposes, but Rhode Island has never gone Democratic in a Presidential year and is not likely to go that way this time.

The figures given by our Portsmouth correspondent, showing the travel over the Stone Bridge for August are eloquent, as showing the relative travel by automobiles and by other kinds of vehicles.

The memory of a gallant soldier and an ally of almost incalculable value to the American colonies has again been honored in the tablet placed on the Vernon house, Rochambeau's headquarters.

In August the ocean steamships coming from Europe brought 7,397 first-class and 7,339 second-class passengers, mostly Americans returning home after vacation trips.

From present indications, Labor day will be a day when very few will labor and nearly every one will devote himself to a day of pleasure. It will be generally observed as a holiday.

The American officers and sailors, and all America as well, will long remember the hearty reception given them in Australia.

BRYAN'S BANK PLAN PICTURED

[Boston Transcript.]

At last somebody has come forward to present concrete examples of the evil which lie hidden in the predominant financial issue of the present campaign. Most sane-minded people have long been convinced that in theory the proposed guarantee of bank deposits was bad, but how it would work out in practice has been left for Mr. E. J. Hill of Connecticut, long a member of the House Committee on Banking and Currency, to set forth. He rightly acknowledges that the idea is very "catchy," telling us that of 79 financial bills introduced at the last session of Congress 27 provided in one way or another for a guarantee of bank deposits. It is, then, an issue that must be met.

Connecticut and Oklahoma have about the same population. In Oklahoma, where this guarantee plan is now in operation, there are 298 national banks, with an average capital of less than $40,000. Connecticut has only 80 national banks, but these have an average capitalization of $250,000. Oklahoma also has 497 state banks, with an average capital of $16,758 each. Connecticut has seven state banks, 25 trust companies and 87 savings banks. Is it any wonder, Mr. Hill asks, that with 805 banks of small capital in Oklahoma, but with deposits running in many cases to 10 and 12 times the amount, Governor Haskell, as chairman of the Democratic committee on resolutions, should be willing that states like Connecticut, where the conditions are reversed, should join in an unlimited liability for all deposits, against the coming day of judgment for his little banks? Nor is it contrary to human nature that he should feel a sort of personal grievance against the states which do not cheerfully respond. Let the prudent bear the burdens of the reckless, and then everybody can afford to throw caution to the winds!

AN UNSINGABLE SONG.

[Syracuse Post-Standard.]

Just before "Uncle Remus" died the President wrote a letter to him to make a suggestion concerning a nation. at Lynn. He says that as "Dixie" stands alone among tunes, so we have in Julia Ward Howe's great "Battle Hymn of the Republic" the very finest and noblest battle hymn possessed by any nation of the world. Every American ought to learn the Battle Hymn. It ought to be adopted as the national anthem. There are the President's sentiments.

The Battle Hymn is a stately piece of poetry. It is set to the tune of "John Brown's Body," and this is one of its stanzas:

I have read a fiery gospel, writ in burnished rows of steel:
As ye deal with my contemners so with you my grace shall deal:
Let the Hero, born of woman, crush
 the serpent with his heel,
Since God is marching on!

Why is it that this poem with the spirited music for which it was written, having been sung throughout the North in the year of its birth, has remained unsung for the 47 years following? Any one who has joined in informal chorus singing around the family piano or organ, or warbled on the steps of a dormitory or the fraternity house knows why. The thing is simply unsingable. It may be effectively read or spoken; it can't be popularly sung. Compare it with such a line as "John Brown's body lies a-mouldering in the grave" or "I've been workin' on the railway all the livelong day" or "There'll be a hot time in the old town tonight," which was the war song, if there was one, in the second-hand affair of '98, or "Way down upon the Swanee river, far, far away," or

Way down South in de fields of cotton,
Cinnamon seeds an' sandy bottom
 Look away!

Such words sing themselves. The words of Mrs Howe's masterpiece have to be sobbed in main force and dragged through the music. It is magnificent, but it isn't a national song and it never will be one.

AROUND RHODE ISLAND.

Notices Served on Owners of Gambling Places at the Pier.

Wounsocket Pastor Protests Against Sunday Base Ball in North Smithfield.

Notices were served on five owners of buildings at Narragansett Pier where gambling places are alleged to exist, last evening, the action being under the law, which states that, unless the nuisance ceases within five days of the notice, the owner shall be fined not less than $100 nor more than $1,000, or suffer imprisonment for not less than 60 days nor more than one year. The notices were served by Lyman H. Cranston, a constable of the town of South Kingstown, at the instance of John G. Cross, who has been the principal figure in the anti-gambling crusade at the Pier, which resulted a few days ago in the arrest of three men said to be proprietors of gambling resorts. These three men secured bail and will be arraigned in the district court at Wakefield Monday. The five owners of property upon whom notices were served last night are: William C. Clarke, as administrator of the estate of William C. Clarke, owner of the Clarke block, where the Narragansett Club is located, and also the owner of Elm Cottage, kept by Merwin A. Webster, one of the three men arrested earlier in the week. Mathewson Company, owners of the Hotel Mathewson, the notice being served upon S. W. Mathewson, William H. Wesley, owner of the Surf Hotel, conducted by himself; Gustave Walter, owner of the Sea View House, conducted by himself; John Bromley, owner of the Brunswick, conducted by William J. Brett. Constable Cranston has several other notices, which he will serve later, if possible.

Rev. George F. Beecher, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Woonsocket and president of the Christian Alliance, which is composed of Protestant ministers of that city, has filed a verbal protest with Daniel M. Mowry, president of the North Smithfield town council, relative to Sunday ball at Fairmount Park, just over the Woonsocket line. A game is announced for Sunday at the park between the Fairmounts, a Woonsocket club organized for Sunday ball, and the All-Stars. Mr. Mowry told Mr. Beecher last evening that he would give the matter his official attention today. The intimation is given that if Sunday ball is not stopped tomorrow at Fairmount orders will be issued before next Sunday to stop it. Rev. Mr. Beecher told President Mowry that the Massachusetts authorities had stopped Sunday ball at Bellingham and Blackstone, that Governor Higgins and Sheriff White had stopped it in Burrillville, and that public sentiment in Woonsocket and the knowledge that the authorities would not stand for it prevented games at the trotting park and at the Clinton Oval. He asked that the North Smithfield authorities co-operate with those in Northern Rhode Island in this matter. Mr. Beecher said that Saturday afternoon was given over to sport and Sunday should be different. He said Sunday ball is often a feeder for worse amusements.

What was probably an attempt to set fire to the lumber yard of Burrows & Kenyon on Dean street, Providence, was frustrated by the night watchman of the place late Thursday, after the workmen had gone home for the night, a blaze under a pile of lumber being extinguished before it had had time to get started. There was no damage. The members of the firm were sure yesterday that if it had not been for the timely discovery of the fire by the watchman, the yard would have been visited by another disastrous blaze, as the place where the flames were discovered was in such a position that the fire would have swept quickly to all parts of the yard. The police are not sure that the cause was incendiary but say rather that they believe that two boys, one six and the other seven, both of whom were seen to run away from the yard by a woman, were hunting for rats around the piles of timbers and were using matches in their search. They will endeavor to find the boys, however.

Walter W. Holt, aged 28, of Gilbertsville, Mass., was accidentally shot at Buttonwoods yesterday afternoon by Stewart Manchester, aged 18, who was shooting at a target nailed to a barn door. The shot which struck Holt went through the door, across the barn, out the other side and buried itself in his hip. He is not considered dangerously hurt. Manchester, in company with other youths about his own age, was shooting at a target with a .45-calibre rifle. The target was nailed to a barn door, the door being closed. One of the shots fired by Manchester struck the target squarely in the centre and an instant later the boys were horrified to hear a cry from the other side of the barn. They rushed around to that side and found Holt lying on the ground with blood flowing from a wound in the hip. The bullet had buried itself in the fleshy part of his hip and made an ugly wound. He was placed in an automobile and taken to the Rhode Island Hospital.

Alfred Stone, senior member of the firm of Stone, Carpenter & Sheldon, architects, of Providence, died suddenly of angina pectoris at the summer home of his niece, Mrs. Charles F. Bachelder at Peterboro, N. H., last night. He was born in East Machias, Maine, July 29, 1834, and was educated in the schools of that city and Salem. His architectural education was gained in the offices of Boston firms, and he began practice for himself in that city in 1856.

In 1864 he came to Providence and, in partnership with Charles E. Carpenter, went into business. Innumerable buildings, public and private, about Rhode Island were planned by Mr. Stone and his partners. Among the principal structures are the State Prison at Howard, the Providence County Court House, the Providence Public Library, the building which houses the Young Men's Christian Association, and schools, hospitals, college buildings and business blocks, besides private residences in various parts of the city and state. Mr. Stone was for many years president of the Rhode Island Chapter of the American Institute of Architects. He was secretary of the American Institute of Architects from 1883 to 1889 and was also president of the Providence Athenaeum and the Swan Point Cemetery Association. He was also interested in the development of the metropolitan park system and was a member of the various commissions designed for the rendering beautiful of the waste lands of the city and state, particularly as a member of the Metropolitan Park Commission.

Brigadier General Augustus W. Corliss, U. S. A. (retired), enrolled as major of the Seventh squadron, Rhode Island cavalry, and later promoted to be lieutenant colonel when the squadron was made a full regiment during the Civil war, died at his home in Denver, Col., yesterday. General Corliss was a native of North Yarmouth, Me., where he was born in 1837. He was well known in Providence, however, and will be remembered by many loyal war veterans. General Corliss was enrolled in Providence as major of the Seventh squadron, Rhode Island cavalry, June 4, 1862. July 3, 1862, he was mustered in to date from June 21. October 2, 1862, he was mustered out. August 31, 1862, the War Department issued an order for raising the First battalion, Second regiment, Rhode Island cavalry, to be under command of Major Corliss, then the senior officer of the Seventh squadron of Rhode Island cavalry. November 15, an order was issued to make it a full regiment of three batallions, and January 19, 1863, Major Corliss was promoted to be lieutenant colonel. Colonel Corliss entered the permanent military establishment and served as private and first sergeant, Company H, Second battalion of Fifteenth infantry, U. S. A., from March 14, 1866, to August 9, 1865, when he was discharged by reason of promotion. July 21, 1865, he was promoted to be second lieutenant and first lieutenant. Later he was promoted as captain in the Eighth infantry, and by the usual stages rose to the rank of brigadier general. He was retired from the army by operation of law, April 23, 1904.

Four missionaries of the Mormon Church of Utah are conducting in Providence a campaign in the interest of their church. They are residents of Utah and are sent out by the church to secure converts to their faith. Their efforts in Providence have already met with some success, for 20 names are already found on the rolls of their local organization. Six converts were baptized a few days ago at Crescent Park. The missionaries will hold religious services there every Sunday afternoon. They have no connection with the church known as the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints. The four missionaries are typical Westerners, of robust physique and clear eye. They are all young men of education and work with zeal in the interest of their cause. Their method is to go from house to house and distribute literature. Wherever opportunity offers they drop a word in the interest of their church and extend an invitation to attend their services.

CORRIDON'S GREAT GAME.

Performance By a Major League Pitcher Ever Exceeded His Work.

The Philadelphia Evening Times, in speaking of Corridon's work last Wednesday says: "Corridon pitched and twirled himself into the Hall of Fame." He played a steady, heady game for eleven innings, held Brooklyn down to nine hits in 11 innings, gave no bases on balls and only fanned two batsmen, made four safe hits himself and drove in the run that won the game.

"No performance by a twirler in major league circles could excel the great work of Corridon. During the entire game he didn't make a single pitching mistake, barring the time in the ninth inning, when many thought he should have given Jordan a base. Corridon didn't give a base on balls, hit a batsman or make a wild pitch. He handled eight fielding chances without an error. Only nine hits were made off him, and on only one occasion could his opponents get more than one in the same session. In the first eight innings Brooklyn had only two men on first base and only one as far as second base.

"Corridon made himself a hero by his work with his bat, and it was a fitting climax to his day's deeds when he drove in the winning run. His great feat of making four hits and Corridon's feat of not giving a base on balls was wonderful for a pitcher, but it was marvelous considering the way the quartet of singles were scored."

SALE OF THE HODGSON LOTS.

This afternoon the auction sale of land on Spring and Webster streets and Morton avenue, formerly the property of the late J. H. Hodgson, is taking place, starting shortly after 2 o'clock. The land has been platted into a number of building lots of varying size, and all the land, including the house on Spring street, is to be sold. The sale began with the lots on the westerly part, and the first piece was sold for $260. There is a large number of persons in attendance, but the bidding has not been lively, and will probably be late in the afternoon when the house and the lots on Spring street are reached. There are lots, including the house lot, to be sold.

THE TRAINING STATION POST-OFFICE.

The Training Station postoffice it is expected will be an established fact next week. Mate William MacKay has received his appointment as postmaster and the office will be established in the administration building. Its establishment will assure a better handling of the mail, by providing the suitable accommodations, and the working force will be able to give the distribution more attention than was possible by the placing of the matter in the charge of an orderly, with no headquarters other than his mailbag.

A GRAND SPLASH.

Sailors of German Cruiser Given a Good Time.

Boxing, Singing and Dancing Features of Entertainment by the Enlisted Men.

The officers of the navy having entertained the officers of German cruiser Freya, and the chief petty officers of the navy having given the chief petty officers of the cruiser a ball and a good time, the enlisted men of the navy last night gave the enlisted men of the Freya an entertainment at Music hall. It was the real thing; there was nothing which looked like an imitation, and the visitors were just "tickled to death" with the hearty, good-natured and whole-souled manner in which the American sailors made the German sailors feel that they were among friends.

The committee of arrangements certainly knew its business. The eatables were provided by the German delicatessen dealer and reminded the Germans of home, for they were German in every way and tasted as good to Americans as to the Germans. Of course there was some beer, and apparently there were some able-bodied drinkers, for the crowd kept the amateur waiters busy. Some idea of the size of the commissary department may be had from the report of the cigar department, which supplied 5,000 cigarettes and almost enough cigars for the whole town. And there were other things.

Music hall was the only available one for the "splash," and its dimensions were inadequate to the demands on it but every one was so good-natured that a little crowding was not noticed. Few failed to note that a larger hall would have been more comfortable, for they were having such a good time that they thought it could not be improved.

About 125 of the German sailors came over to the hall at 8 o'clock and the reception committee of American sailors was fully as large, and gave them a welcome at the very doors which made it evident they were in for a good time. The hall was decorated with German and American flags and looked inviting. After the program was under way there was little time to look at decorations, for things were happening too fast. Secretary G. H. Mowry, of the committee, acted as interpreter, and in German and English called off the various events so that all knew what was coming.

The first number was a clever exhibition of bag punching by Witowski, of the Montgomery. Lodter's orchestra played between the acts and at other times. Next came several clever sparring exhibitions. Two youngsters, Lienhardt and Kederis, showed good form and some clever work, but when Witowski and Kenney got going the crowd rose and impartially applauded, for it was an even and fast exhibition, which brought every one to his feet. The crowd seemed to favor Kenney, but the bout was so even that no decision could have been given had one been desired. Harmer and W. Letch gave an exhibition bout which afforded the Germans a better opportunity to see some of the clever blows and stops, and perhaps they appreciated this more than the bouts, for they could see it better.

When the boxing, which seems really an integral part of a real splash, was over, the sailors took to singing and the Germans showed that they were well up in this line. Seaman Helms, of the Freya, who has a musical voice, sang a German drinking song so effectively that the waiters were worked over-time. Jerry Morrisey sang several real American songs, of which "Harrigan" seemed to be the favorite, and had plenty of help in the choruses. Witowski again showed his versatility, by giving a Dutch dialect sketch and doing some sleight-of-hand work which was clever and suited all. Then came a wrestling match for the championship of the Station, between F. Morris and W. Mills. With one fall to the credit of each, the men struggled for a second, but without results, and finally the match was declared a draw. It will be finished at some time when the program is not so crowded.

Bradley and Doyle gave a buck and wing exhibition which suited even the critics of dancing. J. J. Kenney followed with a monologue, which had so many good things in it that it was a question which was the best, and all were sorry when he sat down. Seaman Gunner Johnson contributed a sentimental song and there were choruses by the assembled multitude. The Germans sang their national songs and the Americans responded with theirs, and at times every one was singing at once, as songs were started which were generally known.

The officers and chief petty officers of the stations and ships had been invited to the splash and some were there. Among the guests was Mayor Clarke, who spoke briefly, commending the men for the enjoyable time they had provided for the visitors, and the Germans for the fine impression they had made. He was heartily applauded.

The supper table presented a particularly appetizing appearance, the salads especially looking almost too good to eat. Every one in Uncle Sam's service did his part to help in waiting or in any other way, and the Germans were made to feel that this was no half-hearted affair, but the real thing in the splash line.

Of course, as generally happens when sailors have a good time, there was dancing. The fact that no women were present made no difference; sailors have plenty of dancing when there is not a woman within many miles, and the dancing groups last night showed that they fully enjoyed a spiel, even if the partner wore a naval uniform.

When the end came all joined in singing "Home, Sweet Home," and the big time was over.

The officials in charge of the splash, to whom much credit is due for the admirable arrangements, were as follows: Secretary, G. H. Mowry; treasurer, R. J. Doyle; reception committee, George Sturtevant chairman, R. W. Ford, P. P. Orth, E. Schoenrock, G. W. Falrey; committee of arrangements, R. J. Doyle chairman, George Bradley, H. Hallgring, C. W. Douglass, J. J. Kenney and T. Letch.

Lodter's orchestra and Milako on the piano furnished the instrumental music.

NEWPORT BAND SMOKER AND ELECTION.

The Newport Band celebrated its thirty-eighth anniversary last evening at the band room, with a smoker, at which a large number of members of the organization were present. The band bears the distinction of being the oldest chartered organization of its kind in the city, having been chartered March 4, 1870, and having remained an active organization ever since.

After the smoker, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: H. C. Sherman, president; Max Mason ..., secretary; J. F. Badaelly, ... director. Mr Badaelly, as a cornetist and leader, is well known to the public of Newport, and under his leadership the old band is prospering.

FOR LABOR DAY.

A General Holiday, With Little Business But a Good Variety of Sporting Events.

Monday will be Labor day, a day which has come to be so generally observed as a holiday that it is safe to say that Newport will be closed up tight so far as regular business is concerned. But there will be the Horse Show and the ball games and opportunities to enjoy one's self in so many ways that there can be no excuse for working—that is, for the ordinary worker. The News will not print and generally things will be in the celebrating line.

The usual holiday excursion train will arrive from Boston in the morning. An extra train for Boston will leave at 5 o'clock to accommodate the many who will come here for Sunday and Monday and wish to get back at that time.

The shops generally will be closed and the day will be a real holiday. All government and city offices will be closed and the postoffice will observe holiday hours, with but one delivery by the carriers, in the morning.

There will be two games of base ball at Wellington Park, where the Carters of Franklin, Mass., will play. This team has always been a fast one and old lovers of the sport will recollect the good games played by the Carters at Freebody Park. The morning game will be at 10 and the afternoon at 3, an hour earlier than has been the rule.

But one game in the City League is scheduled, between the Old Colony and the Rudder Club, in the afternoon.

The Newport Yacht Club will have a regatta over one of the regular club courses, for motor and sailing craft. The motor boats will be started at 10 and the sailing craft at 11.

There will be a pair-oared rowing race in the upper harbor in the afternoon, starting at 2:30 at the Training Station and finishing off the south corner of Long wharf. Those who saw the fine pair-oared race July 4 know what to expect, as some of the same men will be in the boats. It is expected that six boats will be entered.

Monday will be observed by the naval station as a holiday and there will be no more duty performed than necessity demands. The usual drill periods will be omitted.

JAMESTOWN.

[Regular Correspondence of the News.]

The Conanicut Land Company which owns the Shoreby Hill plat, took a hand this morning in the building of the stone wall along the east side of Water street. Mr. P. H. Horgan, who about a year ago purchased the Knowles wharf property, recently commenced the construction of a stone wall similar in style to the wall built by the Improvement Society from Narragansett avenue to Lincoln street. Starting at a point in line with the south side of Narragansett avenue, he has built northward until yesterday he reached a point opposite the Carr lot on Knowles court and Water street, which he also recently purchased. The shore is there occupied by a bathing house belonging to the land company, which claims the narrow strip of land along the water front. Mr. Horgan continued his wall past the line claimed as a boundary, and this morning before the arrival of his workman a force of the land company's men were at work tearing down the wall past the disputed point.

Mr. Charles Pike, who has been at the Newport Hospital, has so far recovered as to be able to return to his home here today.

Mrs. R. Harvey of Wickford is guest of Captain and Mrs. Edward Dickens on Greene lane.

The dance given last evening for the benefit of the Jamestown Brass Band was an enjoyable affair. There was a good attendance and a fair sum will be realized.

The large turbine yacht Atlanta, with Mr. George J. Gould and a party on board, is anchored in Dutch Island harbor.

Mr. P. F. Collier crossed the island today, on his way from Newport to Narragansett.

Mr. John Brooks of Steamer Providence was guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brooks, on Howland avenue today.

At the golf club during the season the various prizes offered for the members have been won as follows: President's cup, carrying the club championship, by Howard Lincoln; president's cup, runner up, Harold B. Tanner; mixed foursomes championship, by Willard B. Tanner; weekly tournament, sweepstakes, Robert Cushman; ladies' weekly tournament, championship, Mrs. Robert Cushman.

MR. AND MRS. SAFE'S OUTING FOR CHILDREN.

Following a custom inaugurated on the day of their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. T. Shaw Safe celebrated the anniversary of that event today by giving a large number of children an entertainment. At noon a number of special cars at Franklin street were loaded with children, under the guidance of Mr. Clarence J. Greason, and were soon on their way to Island Park. There the children were to have dinner and during the afternoon engage in a series of games, for which prizes will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Safe. The Harry K. Howard orchestra went with the children to furnish music during the afternoon.

GOING TO THE WORCESTER FAIR.

The freight depot looked like a section of the Worcester fair like a section, when the many teams from Oakland and Glen farms arrived, each with a load of cattle for the fair or with food and supplies for the animals. Mr. Taylor's Glen Farm sent 18 Guernsey cattle, all beauties, and Mr. Vanderbilt's Oakland Farm sent 10. As these were all brought in in teams, none being driven, some idea of the number of teams assembled there can be had. Mr. Collier, also had an exhibit for the fair, three horses and a dozen hounds for the hunting scene. These were sent by the New York & Boston, while the Adams cared for the cattle from Glen and Oakland farms.

THE TOURO TABLET.

Program of Exercises for the Unveiling at the Synagogue Next Monday.

The tablet which has been placed in the Touro Synagogue by the Congregation Jeshuat Israel of this city, to the memory of Rev. Isaac Touro, first minister of the local synagogue; Abraham Touro and Judah Touro, benefactors, and Rev. Abraham Pereira Mendes, the first minister of the synagogue upon its re-opening after being closed for nearly half a century, will be unveiled with appropriate ceremonies Monday morning at 11 o'clock. The synagogue will be decorated with palms and cut flowers for the occasion, and the Howard orchestra will play and the Euterpe Club sing at intervals during the exercises.

The program will open with music by the orchestra and a selection by the Euterpe Club, after which Rev. Dr. David de Sola Pool, assistant minister of the Congregation Shearith Israel of New York, will make the opening prayer. Mayor Clarke will make an address and the historical address will be given by Mr. Max Levy of this city. Other addresses will be given by Rev. Emery H. Porter, D. D., rector of Emmanuel Church; Leon Huhner, curator of the American Jewish Historical Society, and N. Taylor Phillips, deputy comptroller of New York, and the closing prayer will be by Rev. B. H. Rosengarden, minister of the local synagogue. Invitations have been sent to members of various historical and patriotic societies and public officials, and the public, including women, will be welcome.

NIP AND TUCK ALL THROUGH.

First One Team and Then the Other Led, But the Old Colony Finally Won.

At the Basin yesterday afternoon and partly into the night, the Primer Makers and Old Colony battled in the City League, and finally the Old Colony won. Owing to the fact that the game was played fast and without kicking, seven innings were finished before darkness had come down too dense.

At the start the Primer Makers jumped on Sullivan for three big runs and for some innings only fine fielding kept them from scoring, the centre fielder being a prime factor. In the second the Old Colony made three, a two-bagger by Kelley being a feature. The Primer Makers again took the lead in the third. Then it was nip and tuck till the last half of the sixth, when the Old Colony took a batting streak and scored twice, Sullivan sending in the winning run.

Harmer pitched a fine game for the Primer Makers, but Sullivan, after he was into working condition, was the more effective, shutting out his opponents at the finish. The Old Colony won, 5-4.

INSURANCE COMPANIES' DISPUTE

Troubles Arising Over Question of Rates Paid by Warehouses.

TOKIO, Sept. 5.—There is a serious dispute between the five great fire insurance companies of Japan and the warehousing companies, over a question of rates. The insurance companies insist upon raising the rate paid by the warehousing companies and as the latters' policies aggregate more than 100,000,000 yen annually, this increase of rates becomes a very serious question. It appears probable that the warehousing companies will have recourse to the foreign insurance agencies who are said to be ready to undertake the work at a smaller charge. There is also a report that the warehousing companies are not unlikely to become their own insurers.

THE THELEMA DISMASTED.

Struggle With the Day Dream for First Place Abruptly Ended.

Last of the Season's Races of the Conanicut Yacht Club and Distribution of Prizes.

The Conanicut Yacht Club closed its season of racing Friday, when the tenth of the serial races was sailed in a breeze which at times reached an intensity which called for reefing and staggered the tender boats considerably. The wind was southwest and held true to the end, and the race was therefore a good one.

The struggle for the first place in the season's racing was brought to an abrupt and unexpected end at Bishop's buoys, when the big boats rounded it the first time. The Thelema was ahead and rounded the mark first, closely followed by Day Dream. At the turn Day Dream picked up on Thelema and was able to take first position just after the rounding. Apparently the attention of those on the Thelema was taken up in watching a tow which was passing and they did not appreciate the closeness of Day Dream. The result was that Thelema did not tack to give Day Dream the right of way and those on the Day Dream not thinking that everything was not right the combination of circumstances resulted in a bow-on collision, in which the Thelema's bowsprit was carried away, and the headstay being gone, over went her mast.

It was an unfortunate end, but no one felt worse than those on the Day Dream. Both the Day Dream and Theresa put about to render assistance, but none was needed, as the crew of the Thelema gathered in the wreckage and Mr. J. S. Lovering Wharton's launch took the wrecked [illegible] tow to her moorings at the North Dumplings.

The three big boats went away promptly to an even start, the best of the season. Day Dream had the windward position and soon took the lead. After the turn Thelema picked up on the leaders and it was a pretty struggle, which was terminated only by the accident. On the first round Day Dream led Theresa by 30 seconds, but on the second the Day Dream seemed to sail better than ever and beat the Theresa in her own weather by 19 seconds corrected time.

In the second class Mayanni led from the start, Bonito was delayed and was not at the line at the gun fire. She picked up in the second round and took second place.

The 15-footers had a great struggle. It began before the start and when the gun sounded they were practically all on the line, ready to go over. It is a question which was across first, they all seemed to go away together, as one boat. The Snipe, which has formed the winning habit, had a good struggle with the Whisper, which has also been doing exceedingly well of late. The Snipe, however, pulled away and finished first, with Whisper leading the other boats, all pretty well bunched. The summary:

First class, start 3:05.

	Finish.	Cor. Time.
Day Dream, Catlin-Wetherill,	4:45:38	1:43:38
Theresa, S. Powel,	4:50:25	1:43:57
Thelema, C. W. Wharton, Jr.,		Disabled
Second class, start 3:10.
Mayanni, K. Dodge,	4:53:16	1:47:41
Bonito, B. C. Hirst, Jr.,	5:02:05	1:52:05
Bohemian, C. M. Cole,	5:02:55	1:52:45
Third class, start 3:15.
Snipe, J. Whitall,	4:12:14	57:14
Whisper, E. D. Morgan, Jr.,	4:13:16	58:16
Wenonah, H. Wetherill,	4:13:22	58:22
Echo, Miss Morgan,	4:13:30	58:30
Murmur, Miss Cunningham,	4:14:55	59:55
Muriel, F. Cunningham,	4:16:11	1:01:11

Immediately after the race Commodore Dodge called in the winning owners and distributed the prizes for the season's racing. There were three in each class. The first prizes, all cups, were given by Mr. J. S. Lovering Wharton for the first class, by Mrs. A. M. Wetherill for the second and by Mr. Heckscher Wetherill for the third. Commodore Dodge provided the others. The winners were: First class, Theresa, Thelema, Day Dream; second class, Mayanni, Bonito, Coyote; third class, Snipe, Wenonah, Whisper.

Some of the boats were not at all the races and in consequence their position is not so good at the close as it might have been. Had the Day Dream, Coyote and Whisper raced every time there is no telling what the results would have been. Two boats which raced a part of the season were found at the close not to belong to the club, and really never had a right to race. The dropping of their records did not change the position of any winner. The records in points of the season are as follows:

First class—Theresa, 10 races, 25 points; Thelema, 10 races, 22 points; Day Dream, 7 races, 18 points; Moslem, 6 races, 13 points; Tarew, 3 races, 4 points.

Second class—Mayanni, 8 races, 24 points; Bonito, 9 races, 16 points; Coyote, 5 races, 12 points; Onicawah, 5 races, 8 points; Bohemian, 5 races, 8 points.

Fifteen-footers—Snipe, 8 races, 24½ points; Wenonah, 8 races, 23½ points; Whisper, 6 races, 22 points; Echo, 7 races, 16 points; Murmur, 7 races, 14 points; Muriel, 4 races, 4 points.

HOLD UNION CARDS.

Recruits Act as Motormen; No Sign of Arrangements for Conference.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 5.—Many more men in ordinary clothes, but wearing uniform caps were put to work on the front end of trolley cars with the regular motormen this morning, indicating that the recruits brought here yesterday had been added to in numbers by the Connecticut company. Many of these men hold union cards. They are non-committal in their conversations. That they are not novices in running cars is shown by the familiarity with which they handle the levers. Over night the other tense situation eased up a little. President Charles Minnix of the local union says he has not called a conference of the delegates from 15 unions as reported from Providence and such a conference could hardly be held within 24 hours. There was no evidence of such a conference arranged for this forenoon as President Minnix took out his car as usual.

The possibility of a strike has caused much worriment to merchants and hotel keepers at nearby shore resorts, for they have reckoned upon Labor day as the last opportunity to do a business of sufficient size to make up the season's losses.

With fair weather, a crowd of more than 20,000 people would be carried from this city to Savin Rock alone, and this traffic with that to other nearby places has always tested the carrying capacity of the trolley companies local equipment. Because of the weight of the blow, it is believed the national officers of the trolley men's union selected this city for the next strike, should it go into effect early Monday.

Little information was obtainable among the trolley men during the day, but it was evident that the local men did not like the idea of being the first called out on the strike to support a grievance among the Providence men. Some of them claim that if a strike is to be ordered the trolleymen in Rhode Island should actually be the first to go out, and then the other unions could follow to give endorsement of this action. This sentiment was expressed by several men who appear to be informed as to the probable conference and during the forenoon a report became current that the trouble would be arbitrated. There seemed to be no tangible basis for this report and as new men are continually being sent out with motormen during the forenoon it was taken for granted that the Connecticut company was preparing for emergencies. It became evident during the morning that a conference was to be held within the next 24 hours. It is believed it will be held tonight or tomorrow and action if any will be taken before tomorrow evening.

REPORTS DENIED BY MANNIX.

Quietness Pervades Atmosphere; Delegates Not to Meet in New Haven.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 5.—A tone of quiet pervaded the strike atmosphere in this city today, and although it was believed that the efforts of the agitators for a general strike on the trolley lines of the state, in concert with a similar cessation of work on lines in Massachusetts and Connecticut, operated by the companies subsidiary to the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, might possibly result in a general action, the outlook apparently indicated that the grievances of the local union would be submitted to arbitration.

A denial by Chairman Charles W. Mannix of the union arbitration board, of the report that delegates from the 15 divisions of the New Haven system were to meet in New Haven today, was the latest of the many conflicting reports which have tended to entangle the situation. In view of this latter denial of what appeared to a most authoritative statement, the trolley men who would be affected by the movement here, are uncertain of their position and are looking for something which they may consider definite.

As the strike would eventually call out some 32,000 men in three states, it is certain that both sides will consider the matter carefully before taking final action. The national union officials, it is understood, are at present considering whether the controversy warrants such widespread retaliation on their part, for the discharge of 54 men here, which is explained by the officials as being due to a breach of discipline. The local men, however, claim that the discharge was the result of the organization of a local union, and that the action was prompted by a general prejudice by the officials of the trolley system to organization by their employes.

EULOGISTIC REFERENCE MADE.

Mr. Troup's Funeral to Take Place at His Home Monday.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 5.—Expressions of grief at the sudden death of Alexander Troup, the veteran editor of the New Haven Union, were heard on every side today and many letters of condolence were sent to Mrs. Troup and family. The body of Mr. Troup was brought to this city from New York late this forenoon by Alexander Troup, the elder son and immediately taken to the family home on St. Ronan street. It was tentatively arranged that the funeral will be held Monday afternoon and will be private. This is in keeping with the known wishes of Mr. Troup, who disliked ostentation.

The press of the state today made eulogistic reference to Mr. Troup's personality, touching more particularly upon his picturesqueness in politics, his dominant spirit in newspaper work and his tenacity in overcoming obstacles in his business career. The editors unite in an affectionate farewell to one who has quit their midst after a long, active and honorable career.

NEW ARMY PACK.

Oval Affair, Shape of the Back, Invented by Captain Harriman.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—For the purpose of proving the practicability of a new army pack invented by Captain Frederick C. Harriman, of Company G, 12th regiment, seven privates of that company, fully equipped and led by Captain Harriman, left this city today on a march to Albany. The party expects to reach Albany some time Wednesday. They were preceded by an automobile containing tents, cooking apparatus and general supplies.

The pack invented by Captain Harriman is an oval affair that conforms to the shape of the back. It reaches from the waist line to the shoulders and is strapped both around the waist and over each shoulder. The rifle is fastened to it on the outside. Captain Harriman got the idea from a woodman in the White mountains.

HORSE SHOW MONDAY.

Close Competitions Expected and Special Interest In Fire Department Exhibit.

The Newport Horse Show will open as usual on Labor day and a holiday crowd is expected during the afternoon. The presence of all the largest exhibitors, including the Vanderbilts, Judge Moore, C. W. Watson and T. P. McGrann, together for the first time in more than a year, will ensure a lively competition in the harness classes, and the judges will have no easy task to decide the best horses from so large a group of the finest show animals in the country.

An event of special local interest will be the competition for fire department horses and equipments, in which ... two combination wagons and six ... the hose wagons will be entered. The only company with no representation is the Stevens, whose reel is equipped for only one horse, all the others having double hitches. The hook and ladder companies will not put in their trucks, as because of their length they would be unable to make the turns of the horse show ring. There is a lively interest among the companies in the competition and every piece of apparatus will be put in the best of condition for the contest.

Vocal and instrumental music and recitations were given by a number of guests and there were games and dancing. Barker's orchestra furnishing the music and Mr. Healey the prompting. At midnight supper was served, the table decorations consisting of American Beauty roses. At its conclusion dancing was resumed, which included a cotillion, led by Miss Shields and Mr. Leyton, the favors being handsome. THE NEWPORT LABOR UNIONS.

Do Not Need to Display Their Strength on Parade, Especially With Work Slack.

To the Editor of the Daily News:

Dear Sir: In today's issue of the News I notice that you ask the pertinent question, "Where are Newport's labor unions, which sounds a little satirical, but may not be intended so. As one of the old guard, with your kind permission I will answer that the labor unions are right here, stronger both physically and financially than ever before. But they have learned from past experience that it is not necessary to parade their strength before the public, but that it is wiser to reserve their strength and energy for any emergency that may arise which might compel them to show that strength. Another reason is that the manipulations of the money of the country by certain individuals which caused the stringency and consequent depression of labor during the past year gives us nothing to enthuse about, but on the contrary gives us time and food for thought. We see here in our city hundreds of men thrown out of employment and left to provide shelter, food and raiment for themselves and families, while our city government in its pernicious lethargy seems to ignore the fact and plays shuttlecock with at least one job that would give some relief. I mean the school, and some of them went so far as to state that the working people's children have too much education any way and also advocate foreign labor to do the city work.

Fearing that I am encroaching too much on your valuable space, I will close by stating a well known fact—that the Newport unions and workers in general have always been conservative and respecters of the law, but the present attitude and indifference of our so-called city fathers to the crying needs of the people, will, I predict, cause them a rude awakening in the near future.

P. J. O'Connor

Newport, Sept. 4, 1908.

AT FREEBODY PARK NEXT WEEK.

Labor day and the Horse Show coming in the same week, and the annual Artillery benefit occuring Thursday night, should make a lively week at Freebody Park as Mr. Sheedy always tries to give a good measure of quality and quantity in vaudeville for these occasions. Next week's bill is headed by Carleton Macy and Edna Maud Hall in their domestic drama comedy of newly wedded life, "A Timely Awakening," one of vaudeville's standard laugh-making hits. The Mojakoff-Sandar troupe of Russian dancers, five in number, will be seen in their whirlwind national dances, new to this city. The Four Sisters Amatis, Austrian musical prodigies, playing double duets on two pianos, singing at the same time popular selections from favorite operas, promise to be a number especially attractive to music lovers.

Three Ernests are gymnastic comedians giving a hilarious performance on horizontal bars. George B. Alexander, who made a hit here several years ago will be seen in his character of the "happy hobo." Conners and [illegible] parody singers and [illegible] comedians, who are new here, and Elsie Fay and her proteges Bissett and Scott, are representative American dancers.

UNVEILED BY MRS. HOWE.

on bronze, as we are doing today, in order to perpetuate and accentuate the lives of such men. There is but one other way that fitting tribute may be paid to such a man as Count De Rochambeau, and that is the lasting record of gratitude, deep seated in the memories of those whom he came to aid, and by them transmitted a lasting acknowledgement through generation after generation. Rochambeau and Lafayette are enshrined in every American heart with Greene and Washington.

"It is therefore with a deep sense of appreciation and gratitude for what has been done for us by him whose deeds we commemorate today that I accept, for and in behalf of the citizens of Newport, this tablet, in conception and completion a worthy tribute, not only to the valiant leader of our French allies but also to those who have so happily executed a most pleasant commission."

At the conclusion of Mayor Clarke's address, Mrs. Howe pulled the silken cords and released the tricolor which had covered the tablet, and the bronze was revealed. The band played the Marseillaise and the squad of the Newport Artillery fired a volley of three guns. It had been expected to have a salute fired at Fort Adams, but the orders coming from Washington so late Colonel Robinson ordered out the firing squad of the Newport Artillery to give the salute.

Without formal introduction Count de Chambrun made a brief address speaking of his appreciation of the honor of being selected to represent the French embassy and France on the occasion, and referring briefly to Admiral de Ternay, commander of the French naval forces at Newport, whose body is interred in Trinity churchyard. He spoke appreciatingly of the work of the sculptor, Pierre Feitu, in the memorial to the French general placed on the house he had occupied as his headquarters in Newport, and of the custom of patriotic societies of erecting memorials in imperishable bronze to the men who fought valiantly for their country. France fully appreciates the honor which is today given to its distinguished soldier, and the recognition thus made of the services of that country to America in its time of peril.

After Count de Chambrun's address another volley was fired by the Artillery squad, and the band played "Star Spangled Banner." This concluded the exercises, and many availed themselves of the opportunity to inspect the house where Rochambeau lived, and to meet Mrs. Howe, who held an informal reception.

Before the party left a photograph was taken of Mrs. Howe, Count de Chambrun, Professor Henin, M. Feitu and Admiral Chadwick, in a group on the steps of the house.

Later Count de Chambrun and the sculptor, M. Feitu, went with Mrs. C. W. Lippitt, Mrs. C. L. F. Robinson, Admiral and Mrs. Chadwick and Professor Henin, to place a large wreath on the grave of Admiral de Ternay in Trinity churchyard.

A pleasing incident of the day was the presentation to Mrs. Howe, just before the ceremony, by Master John Nicholas Brown, of a large bouquet of flowers.

The building on Pelham street, in which are located the headquarters of L'Alliance Francaise, was decorated with French and American flags, and the French flag was flown from the old City Hall flag-staff by the proprietor, Mr. D. E. Sullivan, in honor of the dedication.

THE VERNON HOUSE.

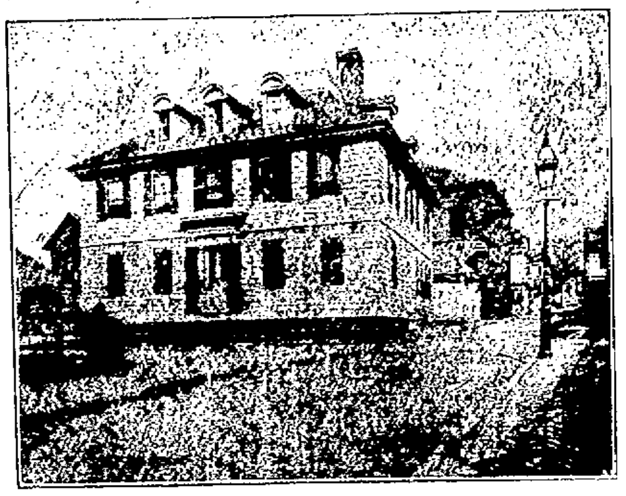

Not Only the Headquarters of Rochambeau But the Stopping Place of Washington.

The Vernon house, on which the Rochambeau tablet has been placed, was built about 1749 by Newbold Edgar, who owned a country seat in Middletown and occupied this as his town house. About 1770 it was sold to William Vernon, one of the leading merchants of Newport, and was occupied by him until his death, except during the seizure of the town by the British in the Revolution, and by members of his family for nearly 100 years. It was purchased by its present owner, Mr. Harwood E. Read, in 1870 and has thus in an existence of 168 years been owned by only three families. It is a fine example of early Colonial architecture and has been changed but little in its exterior appearance, while the interior is practically as it has been for more than a century.

During the British occupation Mr. Vernon, being active in the affairs of the Colonial government, was forced to vacate. In common with other houses in Newport it was occupied by the British officers, and it was only on the evacuation that it was restored to its owner. When the French fleet arrived it was made the headquarters of General Count de Rochambeau, who remained there during his stay in the town. There Count Rochambeau entertained General Washington on the latter's first visit to Newport. A recital of that visit may not be out of place at this time. It was related by an eye-witness to the late Charles T. Hammett, who incorporated it in his book, "Newport Illustrated."

"General Washington, on his arrival in the harbor, was received at the ferry in Jamestown by the admiral's barge and conducted on board his ship to Newport. The landing was at Barney's ferry, the corner of Long wharf and Washington street. The French troops formed a close line, three deep on either side, from the ferry up Long wharf and Washington square to Clarke street, where it was turned to a right angle and continued to Rochambeau's headquarters. The following night the town was illuminated. At that time the inhabitants were poverty-stricken and comparatively few were able to take part in the joyful ceremony; but that all should share in the honors paid so distinguished a visitor the town council ordered that candles should be purchased and given to all who were too much distressed through continued losses to purchase for themselves, so that every house should show a light. The procession was led off by 30 boys bearing candles fixed on staffs, followed by Washington, Rochambeau and the other officers, their aides and the procession of citizens. The brilliant procession marched through the principal streets and then returned to the headquarters. During Washington's stay there were many brilliant entertainments in his honor at the headquarters."

After the stay of the French officers Mr. Vernon returned to the house, and having resumed his business continued to live there until his death in 1806. It was then occupied by his son, Samuel Vernon, and a younger son, William H. Vernon, who had made in Europe a valuable collection of oil paintings, which were hung on the walls of the house and were sold in 1835, being known as the Vernon paintings. Mr. Samuel Vernon continued to live in the house until 1870, when Mr. Read purchased it. For a number of years it was rented to various persons, including William W. Hazard, Clarence Lice and Professor Pumpelly, for the use of the United States Geological Survey. Mr. Read has occupied it since 1882.

VERNON HOUSE, CLARKE AND MARY STREETS.

THE TABLET.

A Medallion Portrait of Count de Rochambeau. With Appropriate Inscription.

The design consists of a medallion portrait of General Count de Rochambeau in green bronze, beneath which is the inscription tablet cast in the same piece, with the words: "Headquarters of General Count de Rochambeau, commanding the French allies." The general is represented at the age of 58 years, when he was in Newport, in 1780-1. The likeness is the result of much research and study on the part of the sculptor, who was guided principally by an engraving of the French officer commandant, preserved in an official document which he was given the opportunity of sketching in the National Library at Paris. Count de Rochambeau's face, with its firm chin and strong features, impresses the observer with his soldierly qualities. The uniform is that of a French general of that period. Beneath the medallion is a garland composed of laurel and oak. The corners of the tablet are marked with fleur de lis and the border with stars.

The tablet has been placed on the extreme south end of the west front of the building, immediately adjacent to the Mary Street side, taking the place of the wooden tablet placed there several years ago by the Newport Historical Society. The new tablet is the work of Pierre Feitu, a French sculptor who has a studio in New York.

ELEVEN MONTHS AHEAD.

Date for the Launching of Battleship North Dakota Set for November 9.

President Francis A. Bowers of the Fore River Ship Building Company announced that battleship North Dakota will be launched November 9, less than 11 months after work on the big vessel was begun. The record for speed work has been paralleled only once in the history of battleship building. That was in the case of the English Dreadnought, but the conditions were different.

There has been a keen rivalry between the Fore River company and the Newport News company, which is at work on the Delaware. The Delaware is the sister ship of the North Dakota and her keel was laid just two weeks later than that of the North Dakota. The work on the North Dakota is far in advance of that on her sister ship and is about five months in advance of any construction ever undertaken in an American shipyard upon battleship work.

The allowance of time specified by the government when advertising for bids upon these American Dreadnoughts of 20,000 tons each was 36 months. The Fore River company voluntarily limited itself to 31½ months for the building of the North Dakota, and to date has far surpassed even this limitation.

THE ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH FAIR.

Tonight marks the end of the first week of St. Joseph's Church Fair, and those in charge express themselves as well pleased with the results to date. Next week special attractions have been arranged for every evening.

One of the prettiest spots in the hall is the candy booth, where Miss Hattie Shea presides with a bevy of able assistants. The stand is decorated in lavender and white and the sweets are temptingly arrayed, and few people leave the hall without purchasing some of the delicacies, the sale of home-made candies being especially large.

Last evening the following awards were made at the various tables:

Parish—1st, J. E. Drury; picture, Mrs. Rodrigues, Evart street; china basket, A. Nolan, Roxbury.

Sanctuary—Glove box, Mrs. D. Houlihan, Burnside avenue; patcher, Julia Sullivan, Cannon street.

Rosary—Shirt waist set, A. R. Gatzemeier.

Legion—Apron, Florence E. Khardt; jar of peaches, Mrs. Gatzemeier; writing pad, D. Smith, Ruggles avenue.

Alumni—Pin cushion, Barbara Boyle.

Candy—Box of bonbons, Miss E. T. Mahon.

GOLF FOR THE DAVIES CUP.

At the Newport Golf Club yesterday play was begun in the 18-hole match play tournament for the J. Clarence Davies cup. Eight entered and the result of the four matches was as follows:

Victor Sorchan defeated Clarence W. Dolan, 1 up and 2 to play.

H. O. Havemeyer, Jr., defeated Royal Phelps Carroll, 3 up and 1 to play.

Stuyvesant L. Roy defeated Arthur L. Wessell, 6 up and 5 to play.

H. R. S. Parks defeated Dr. R. E. Moore, 4 up and 2 to play.

The matches today will be between Messrs. Sorchan and Havemeyer and Messrs. LeRoy and Sedgwick.

OPENING THE CAMPAIGN.

Republicans of the State Eat Clams and Listen to Party Speeches at Field's Point.

The Republicans of Rhode Island opened the campaign in this state yesterday, with a dinner and outing at Field's Point, under the auspices of the Republican state central committee. There was a large gathering, including five of the former Republican governors of the state, former lieutenant governors, nearly all the Republican members of the General Assembly, members of the city and town committees from all over the state and many prominent Republicans. There were fully 600 persons present, filling eight of the long tables in the dining hall. During the dinner selections by the band enlivened the moments until the season of speech-making began.

Owing to the large crowd it was decided to adjourn to the dance hall for the speaking. Chairman Frank W. Tillinghast of the committee of arrangements called to order and raised the company to considerable enthusiasm by reference to the names of Taft and Sherman and the recent Republican victory in Vermont. He read letters of regret from Mr. Taft and Mr. Sherman, and a telegram of regret from Attorney General William B. Greenough. He then introduced in turn the several speakers.

Congressman John W. Weeks of Massachusetts declared that a Democratic victory in the national election this fall would mean four years of business depression, due to the postponement of tariff revision. He argued that if the Democrats secured control of the House, neither the Republican nor the Democratic party could undertake the tariff revision, and that the question would therefore hang fire during the Democratic administration, prolonging the uncertainty, to the detriment of business.

Congressman Capron, in his first public appearance since his illness, warmly defended ownership and management of railroads by private enterprises.

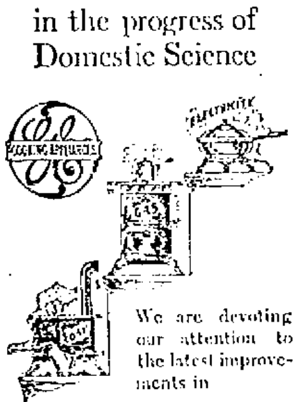

Speaker Burchard, whose name has been connected with talk of the nomination for governor, was flatteringly received. He administered a mild rebuke to President Faunce of Brown University for the latter's Jamestown speech, in which Dr. Faunce said he blushed for shame that there was vote buying in the rural towns of Rhode Island.

The names of Taft, Sherman, Aldrich and Capron were cheered, and the remarks of the speakers were attentively listened to and enthusiastically applauded.

From Newport and vicinity there were present Senator John P. Sanborn, Deputy Speaker R. S. Burlingame, Representatives Hassard, Franklin and Burdick; Colonel C. L. F. Robinson, Edward S. Rawson and Robert W. Goelet of this city; Senator Stoddard and Representative Anthony of Portsmouth, Colonel Howard R. Peckham of Middletown, Senator J. Eugene Littlefield and Representative Ray G. Lewis of New Shoreham, Representative Isaac H. Clark of Jamestown and Senator George R. Lawton and Representative S. F. Grinnell of Tiverton.

SEVEN BROTHERS LIBELLED.

Owners and Lessee of Wrecked Fishing Trap Claim Damages Amounting to $5,250.

A libel, in which the parties to the action seek to recover damages amounting to $5,250, was filed in the United States court in Providence yesterday by Ernest Coggeshall, Benjamin Hall and John T. Gardiner of Tiverton, against steamer Seven Brothers, the libellants claiming that the vessel ran into and injured a fish trap.

It is alleged that Hall and Gardiner are the owners of the trap or seine and that it was leased for the season to Coggeshall and set in the public waters about a mile southeast of Narragansett Pier. August 15 Mr. Coggeshall and his men in boats were engaged in hauling the trap, they say, when the Seven Brothers, F. C. Thompson master, wilfully ran into the net and dropped anchor, thereby allowing the fish, valued at $750, to escape, damaging the trap to the extent of $1,500, and causing a loss of $3,000 because the trap could not be used from August 15 to August 31.

The libellants ask that the vessel may be condemned by the court to pay the losses sustained by them. Clark Burdick and Barney & Lee are counsel for the fishermen.

A ton of coal, converted into gas and used explosively in an internal combustion engine, will yield twice as much power as it would if burned under a steam boiler.
